Kindness Builds a Ramp That Opens Doors for a Child With Disabilities

Jayden Hall relaxes in his new wheelchair.

On April 28, Jayden Hall was given what every child deserves: a chance for mobility, a chance to receive an education, and a chance to be out in the community.

Born with multiple disabilities, Jayden was adopted by his great aunt, Lisa Jones, at six months of age. Lisa and her husband, Ollie Smith, have dedicated their lives to caring for Jayden, now three years old.

Jayden has been involved with Murray Ridge Center since he was three months old, receiving monthly visits from our Early Intervention Specialists. In the fall, Jayden hoped to attend Murray Ridge School, but Lisa and Ollie were not hopeful that they were capable of moving him in and out of their home each day.

Months ago, Jayden received a wheelchair. The wheelchair allowed Jayden to be at "seeing level," rather than on the floor or being carried around. While the wheelchair has been a blessing, his aunt found that getting him in and out of the house presented major difficulties.

This is where Murray Ridge Center became involved. Six months ago, Lisa contacted Valerie "Val" Deptula, the Early Intervention Supervisor at Murray Ridge School, asking for help. Lisa and Ollie could not afford a wheelchair ramp for their home, and were looking for assistance.

Val contacted Family Stability of Lorain County, an organization made up of different county agencies geared towards helping citizens in times of need. Family Stability graciously donated $1,000 towards the cost of the ramp.

Unfortunately, building a ramp proved to be more costly, with bids of almost $3,000. Finally, Val contacted friend and builder Brian Poyle who offered to help. Murray Ridge School then approached Home Depot of Lorain, who not only donated the remainder of the supplies not covered by Family Stability's $1,000, but also sent two volunteers to help build the new ramp.

Volunteers work on constructing the new ramp.

On the morning of April 28, Jason and Val Deptula, Brian Poyle, and Home Depot volunteers arrived at Jayden's home and built the new ramp.

Jayden's aunt and uncle were thrilled with all Murray Ridge Center has done to help this child they have happily accepted into their home.

Better yet, Jayden now has a chance to come and go from his home. This ramp has afforded Jayden and his family access to his medical appointments, and the ability to attend Murray Ridge School in the fall where he will have the opportunity to learn and grow and live the life every child deserves.

Thank you to Home Depot and all the volunteers that helped change the life of one very special little boy.

The finished ramp.

Circle of Life on the Ridge Murray Ridge School Performs Annual Play

On April 27, Murray Ridge School presented its annual play, this year titled "Circle of Life on the Ridge."

The musical, written by teacher Gary Hawke with musical numbers composed and performed by teacher Nevan Eilbeck, followed the animals of South Africa's grassland ecosystem. The scenes throughout portrayed the relationships between the animals and their environment, and how we can learn from our animal friends important lessons that can be applied to everyday life.

"Circle of Life on the Ridge" included students from all classes, some dressed as wild animals, others singing and playing instruments in the student choir and drum core.

Congratulations to our Murray Ridge School students on a wonderful play, and thank you to the teachers and staff that helped make this year's play another memorable production!

Playground For Kids of All Abilities Coming to Mercy Recreation and Health Center

Lorain County Metro Parks recently unveiled Lorain County's newest inclusive play area at the Mercy Recreation and Health Center in Amherst. The goal of this playground is to create a space where children of all abilities will be able to enjoy the outdoors with their family members.

wheelchair as they roll through one water feature after another.

Citizens can support this playground by donating a monetary gift. As part of the donation, supporters will be able to decorate a tile with the assistance of local artists. These tiles will then be placed throughout the playground. For

Through a partnership with Lorain County Board of Developmental Disabilities (Murray Ridge Center), the Lorain County Board of Mental Health, and parents of children with disabilities, the playground has been designed to accommodate children of all abilities. The outdoor area will include swings, a sand pit, fishing pond, a tent village, a tree house, slide, sunflower maze, sled hill, and more. During the summer months, children can cool off in the water play area, which will have different settings for children with different disabilities. Children in wheelchairs will be able to use ponchos to protect the

those who aren't artistically inclined, they can select a predetermined design that will be created by one of our artists. Tiles are available for $1,000, $500, $250, and $100. A custom size tile is available for $5,000 and an artist can design the tile to your liking. Donations can be made online at ww.metroparks.cc/playground or by mailing a check to Lorain County Metro Parks, ATTN: Outdoor Play Area, 12882 Diagonal Road, LaGrange, Ohio 44050. Exceptional Service at Murray Ridge Center

Christine Ash, Residential Program Manager at Murray Ridge Center's East College and South Professor Group Homes, recently received the quarterly Exceptional Service Award from the Board of Developmental Disabilities.

Christine was nominated by Laura Shumaker, cousin of South Professor resident Sharon Kinney. In her nomination letter, Laura expressed her appreciation for Christine and all she does for the consumers living at the home. "Christine is the heart of the home," she said in her letter. "Christine's heart is wide open and everyone feels the love."

Congratulations, Christine! And thank you for your exceptional service at Murray Ridge Center.

Christine accepts her award from Board Member Dan White.

New to the LCBDD Crew

Please Welcome the Newest Members of the Murray Ridge Team!

Juan Molina joins us as a Service and Support Administrator. Juan received his undergraduate degree from Bowling Green State University and his Masters of Public Administration and Economic Development from Cleveland State. Juan lives in Elyria and enjoys reading, working out, and listening to music. He is also a big sports fan!

 HELPING PEOPLE...FOR A LIFETIME

Even though the winter this year was mild, everyone is still looking forward to those long, warm summer days. With that in mind, this Eye on Health focuses on two key tips to make summer fun a little safer.

Eye On Health

Kevin Eye, Director of Nursing Services

Use sunscreen. Exposure to the sun, even on overcast days, can cause sunburn in as little as 30 minutes for some people. Frequent use of sunscreen minimizes the risk of getting burned on those hot summer days. Additionally, the American Cancer Society recommends sunscreen as a frontline protection against skin cancer. Look for sunscreen that provides “broad spectrum” protection against both UVA and UVB radiation. Also, be aware the FDA has noted that any sunscreen with a SPF above 50 has no additional protective value.

Stay hydrated. Thirst is one of the first signs of heat exhaustion. Drinking plenty of non-caffeinated and non-alcoholic beverages will go a long way in preventing dehydration and heat exhaustion. Along with thirst, signs of heat exhaustion include headache, weakness, nausea, vomiting, dizziness, and profuse sweating. If you or someone you know is having these signs on a hot summer day, drink water or sports beverages and get cool (with a cool shower, in an air conditioned area, in the shade, or in front of a fan). If symptoms persist or worsen, seek medical attention to prevent a serious, life-threatening condition known as heat stroke.

Until next time, be well.

Murray Ridge Center Honors Oberlin College Students with Volunteer of the Year Award

Murray Ridge Center honored the Murray Ridge Oberlin College Alliance, or MROCA as they are known on the Oberlin College campus, as the winner of the 2012 Marilyn Hupfer Volunteer of the Year Award. The award was made at the agency's annual Volunteer Appreciation Reception where Murray Ridge Center recognizes with gratitude all the volunteers for the time and commitment they've given throughout the past year.

The Marilyn Hupfer Volunteer of the Year Award was created seven years ago by the Lorain County Board of Developmental Disabilities to commemorate the life of a woman who personified the spirit of helping people. Each year, a volunteer is nominated to receive this distinction in honor of the example inspired by Mrs. Hupfer during her time with Murray Ridge Center.

MROCA is comprised of students from Oberlin College dedicated to working with individuals with developmental disabilities. These exceptional young men and women have volunteered hundreds of hours this year alone. At Murray Ridge School, MROCA volunteers spend an hour each week in three different classrooms assisting with lessons. At the Board's three Opportunity and Vocational Centers, Oberlin College students conduct the Murray Ridge Storytelling ExCo, which provides consumers with three weekly storytelling workshops, and bi-weekly meetings where they engage consumers in discussions regarding disability literature and contemporary issues faced by the DD community.

Because of their continued dedication to Murray Ridge Center, ability to create more opportunities to work with Murray Ridge consumers, and interest in fostering the connection between Oberlin College and the more than 2,000 Lorain County citizens with developmental disabilities we serve, Murray Ridge Center congratulates MROCA as recipient of the Marilyn Hupfer Volunteer of the Year Award.
